“MEET THE JOURNAL EDITORS”

Panel

Panel Chair: Sipior, Janice C., Villanova University, Villanova, PA USA, janice.sipior@villanova.edu

Abstract
The purpose of the “Meet the Journal Editors” panel session is to provide attendees with an opportunity to meet, interact with, and hear the views of journal editors from leading international IS journals. This panel is targeted toward active researchers interested in learning about possible publication opportunities. Each panellist will briefly overview their journal and share key points about the journal to assist researchers targeting the journals for publication consideration. Attendees will benefit by asking questions about manuscript preparation, qualities that are found in a publishable manuscript, the review process, responding to peer reviewers’ comments, preparing the final article or any other publication concerns.

Keywords: IS journals, publishing, submission requirements, peer review.

Focus of panel
The purpose of the Editors Panel session is to provide attendees with an opportunity to meet, interact with, and hear the views of journal editors from leading international IS journals. This panel is targeted toward active researchers interested in learning about possible publication opportunities. The perspectives provided are intended to assist researchers targeting the journals for publication consideration. Attendees benefit by asking questions about manuscript preparation, submission requirements, the review process, responding to peer reviewers’ comments, and preparing the final article.

1 Panellists
Panellists include editors and representatives from leading international IS journals:

1. AIS Transactions on Human-Computer Interaction – Jason Thatcher
2. Business & Information Systems Engineering – Robert Winter
3. Communications of the AIS – Matti Rossi
4. Electronic Markets – Rainer Alt
5. European Journal of Information Systems – Frantz Rowe, Pär Ågerfalk, or Dov Te’eni
6. Information Systems and e-Business Management – Michael J. Shaw
7. Information Systems Journal – Pat Finnegan
8. Information Systems Management – Janice C. Sipior
2. Structure of panel

The panel is structured in two parts, each of which is about 45 minutes in duration. During the first part, each panellist will deliver a presentation of about 3-4 minutes in duration. In alphabetical order according to the journal title, each panellist provides a brief overview of the journal he represents. The second part is open to questions from attendees. Questions may be about publishing in general, or targeted to a specific journal or a specific point. The discussion thereby proceeds according to questions asked.
